

Professional Qualifications:

Linda Whitelaw

Senior Career Consultant

Linda's professional background includes consulting to a variety of industries in executive search, employment and other human resources areas in the retail, manufacturing, and health care industries. In addition, she has spent over 10 years in the recruiting/consulting field, successfully placing qualified candidates in various functional areas to companies in the St. Louis region.

Her management skills and experience in the human resources field with a diverse group of industries has enabled Linda to understand the unique needs of employers. She utilizes this knowledge and experience in helping guide her clients to successfully achieve their re-employment goals. Linda serves as a positive liaison for candidates to reach the next stage of their career. She realizes that this period in a candidate's career can be a difficult one and is totally committed to establishing a level of planning, organization, counseling and dedication that will result in a successful transition for the candidate.

Linda is currently an active volunteer for St. Louis Children's Hospital, Foundation Fighting Blindness, and The Service Bureau in recent years.

Linda and her family live in St. Louis, MO. She earned her B.S. in Education from The American University, Washington, D.C. and a Human Resources Certification from the University of MO in St. Louis.
